

NSA Hacking Europe

By Samir Aziz

Key

YELLOW: Germany
GREEN: Moscow
BLUE: Washington DC

America was caught spying on its ally Germany because Edward Snowden leaked private NSA information. Not only did America violate its trust with Germany, it harmed its reputation. They also were caught tapping in on Angela Merkel, the chancellor of Germany's, phone.

Snowden released 150,000 Australian files, 58,000 British files, and about 1.7 million U.S. files.

He had access to these file through the Five Eye's group. These countries include Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and the United states.

